VOLGA CAPTURES $5000 FUTURE

Pop Geers Loses Out by a Narrow Margin in Tennessee Stake Event.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 7.—Volga, the Pastime stable Peter the Great-Swallow Belle filly, won the $5000 Kentucky Futurity for two year old trotters, the chief attraction of the Grand Circuit meeting here Wednesday. The filly, owned by the late Mrs. J. W. Geers, was trained by her son, Pop Geers, and was a new world's record for two year old fillies made by Native Belle in 1923 and finished the second round in 2:08.4. Volga was closely followed in each heat by Walnut Tree, but had no difficulty in winning either heat. The Tennessee stake for four-year-olds was unfinished, after four heats. Napoleon Direct, driven by Geers, won the first heat easily but was pinned to a drive in the second by Braden Direct. In the third he broke badly, turning into the stretch, but came near winning when Geers brought him to the front after a wide turn. Peter Stevens taking the heat by a neck. The veteran driver was wildly cheered, as many believed he had won the heat and race. In the fourth round, a wheel of Geers' sulky caught the wheel of Braden, driving Braden Direct, and the sulky of the latter was upset in front of the judge's stand, causing an untimely Whitehead was fined $100 for laying on in the first heat. He finished fifth with Flower Direct in each heat.

The first mishap of the meeting took place in the second round of the race when Edmer Dickson, an added starter, fell at the seven-eighths post, and Ringer, Butler, and Bern, all drove into him. Some spectators and others suffering only a severe shaking. The horses were not injured, except Ringer, who was thrown, was driven by permission of the judge. After four heats the race went on until today, a different purse winning in each heat.

Savo made a straight heat race of the 2:08 pace unopposed, and won from Peter Worth, which took second money. In the 2:02 class trip, Ames Albion, driven by McDonald, won a straight heat victory over Judge Jones, piloted by Pop Geers.

"RED SOX" HAVE BETTER CHANCES

(Continued from previous page.) will stimulate team work as much as a chance at the big end of the world's series money will do. A couple of unexpected beatings makes the reaction worse. When they played the Athletics last year, they were playing each other instead of playing it out hard. Last year the Athletics started blaming each other after the first loss, and then they were liable to lose through over-confidence or carelessness and let the Phillies get the jump on them.

Working Out the Scores. Next we will take the figures and reduce them to the thing we have been working on—scores. If you have been keeping your own "dope" and making your own values according to my rules, you can do it yourself. If not, you can take my values in figures and reduce them to the scores of each game.

This is the way to do it. I figure Alexander and Tulliver, Wood and Cady as the batteries.

First Inning Score. Philadelphia. He doesn't hit much, but Wood's batting and swinging away at the pitcher, speed pitching. Will he walk or make a hit? The chances are 5 to 1 against him. Wood is liable to be walking having worked in world's series games before. But Stuck down a sure out. Brockport does not rely upon such a Wood's batting. Brockport is a better chance, 4 to 1 he will not reach first. Figure it a scoreless inning.

Take the second inning. Cravath leads off—a great hitter, keyed and on edge. Wood will pitch harder, knows Cravath's ability to hit. With more speed there is more chance of a hit or of a pass are increased. I figured Cravath to get first.

Figure Cravath's Batting. No I went through the entire game, studying each man, the direction of his hits, where they were going, and the direction of the pitcher's arm. I would try to do, figured the chances of getting on first, of a sacrifice, or a run and hit game.

I have figured each game that way, gone over them half a dozen times calculating chances from the compiled figures.

Last year I had the score of the first game practically correct. Only a brilliant double by Marquard made in the ninth inning, kept me from having the second score exactly right. I do not know the score of the third game, and I am not sure of the score of the fourth on both sides. Because of Marquard's double play that saved the game and gave Boston a 2 to 1 game instead of the Athletics a 2 to 2, we never got a chance to see whether any figure was right or not. And sixth were correct. One play broke the combination. It may do so again. You never can tell, but you have to believe the old adage.

GEORGE DUDDY has been doing well with Oakland and the Oakland correspondent of the St. Louis Sporting News has this to say of the ex-Mackman's work: "Duddy's work around third in the series against San Francisco was high class but he fell off in his hitting. However, he redeemed himself to some extent in this respect by coming through in the pinch Sunday morning here, driving in the first, and what looked to be for some time, the only run of the game."

HARVARD plays Carlisle on the Cambridge gridiron, Saturday, but the Indians have not shown much as far this season. Princeton tackles Syracuse and this game should give a real line on the strength of the "big" eleven. Leigh is fairly strong but Yale should win the game at New Haven. The most important game in the middle west will be between Northwestern and Chicago.

YALE has about decided that the mixture of the English rugby open play with the old mass play and line plunging of American college football is not a success and a shakeup of the Bulldogs' backfield is more predicted with less open play and more line bucking.

EL PASO fans will see their first football game of the season at Rio Grande park on Saturday afternoon when the local "H" meets the Deming high school eleven. It should be a fast game and well worth attending.

TRIS SPEAKER demonstrated to a New York audience the other night that he hasn't forgotten all the tricks he learned riding range in Texas. Carrigan Gives Pitchers Plenty To Do

Senators Lose To Mack's Schoolboys

BY "BECK."

BILL CARRIGAN evidently believes his pitchers will be better in the world's series if he gives them enough work to keep in condition. In Wednesday's games with the Yankees at New York, Carrigan gave four of his stars in the first contest and then sent them in for the full distance in the second game. Boston won both contests, the score being 2 to 0 and 4 to 2. Carrigan pitched only the first inning of the first game and fanned the only three men to face him on 11 pitched balls. Packinpaugh fouled one and one was a ball. Leonard worked the next two innings, didn't give a hit, allowed one pass and fanned three. Then Joe Wood took up the mound duty for Joe Inning. He was very effective, but was found for two hits and fanned the usual three. Mayes wound up the game and maintained the shutout record. Donovan used Morledge for the first five innings. He allowed only two hits and then gave way to Russell, one of the recruit heavyweights who was found for four hits in the remaining four innings. In the sixth and Boston got its first run and added two more in the seventh and one in the eighth. Ruth wobbled in the eighth when the Yankees got busy and scored two runs. Tipple did not allow a hit for the first five innings.

The Senators wound up their season in a decidedly "unofficial" manner, losing both ends of a double bill to Connie Mack's Schoolboys. Morrisette had the better of "Doc" Ayres in the first game while Mayes, a recruit, let the Senators down with two stinky singles in the second contest. The Senators fielded very poorly in this game and though the Mackmen got only four hits, they made them all count and won, 4 to 1.

The Star players of the Phillies had a workout on Wednesday against the Dodgers. The Phillies won the first game by scores of 9 to 6 and 2 to 2. In the second game, the Phillies allowed five hits in the first four innings of the opener, Brooklyn grabbing four runs in the first inning. Mayer worked four innings and allowed one hit while Alexander was touched up for two hits in the final inning. Marquard "blew" in the fourth inning and was taken out in the fifth. Malies finishing the game. Gavy Cravath doubled his 24th run of the season in this game and took the rest of the afternoon off to celebrate. Becker's homer with two on bases gave the Phillies the victory in the second game. Oeschger worked for the Phillies against Bell and Appelton.

The doubleheader at Boston ended a second place for the Braves and the cellar honors for the Giants as the Senators took both games, the score in each being 1 to 0. Hughes held the Phillies the victory in the second game. Two hits in the first game while Palmer allowed six. In the second game, Egan was located for nine hits but Patsy was effective with men on bases and kept the Giants from scoring while Terresa was badly as good.

Lamar and Bailey Squads Work Hard; High School Trains for Deming.

BY J. H. STINE.
(Recreation Supervisor.)

Amidst the excitement of preparations for the high school-Deming game, next Saturday afternoon, the fact of a preliminary game between the teams of Lamar and Bailey grammar schools has been lost sight of. The latter fellows are proportionately a good scrap as their larger brothers did in the opening game of their season at Las Cruces. Lamar is touted as the logical winner by 10 to 1, but the Bailey boys say that they will fight to the last ditch, and nothing of them seem to think that, in spite of the weight advantage which Lamar has, the snappy and gritty football of Bailey will even up the game. A special, reduced rate ticket for grade school students has been issued which includes admission to both of Saturday's games.

High School Training Hard. Hard work for the high school squad continues to be the "day's order" handed out by coach Evans in preparation for the Deming bunch, and if the team was called to meet Harvard the plans of attack and defense could not be more fully entered into by the tactful footballer.

A good hand of football will surely be on tap next Saturday if the squad is in the best of condition. The boys in their studies, items which at the present seem very questionable.

How to Keep After Them. "These fellows seem to think that we don't need to play football against this Deming bunch," said the coach, "and I have to pound them on the back all the time, not only to get action and results on the playing field, but to keep them from being in on those studies."

"One would think that their motto in studying would be 'with football, cut out the studies,' but their actions on the field belie this. If they ever get on the field, they will be able to get back in the harness."

Several Suffer Injuries. Several of the stars are suffering from slight physical injuries which may keep them out of practice just long enough to throw out of kilter the chances of a hard battle and, like Herrick, will have no alibi on the score of lack of condition.

Wants Boxer to Break Clean. John E. Herrick, club manager and manager of the club, has decided to ask both boxers in the main bout to break clean at the order of the referee. This will do away with hitting in the breakaway, which is a fast trick and will have the effect of giving the fans more flashy work.

As George and Herrick are both clever boxers, this order should be very agreeable to them. Each man will be required to take a full step backward on the call of the referee. Billy Smith goes between the men in breaking them from a clinch and the men adhere to the new rule, the bout will be a very clean one.

Power, however, may not find the rule so agreeable, if it is enforced in the semi-final. He is a rough and tumble fighter, using his strength to wear down his opponent in the clinches. In the seventh inning, and lost the fight, he will have to get used to the clean break.

In the past, the rules adopted across the river have been practically "straight rules," which permit hitting under any and all conditions, and the result that there has been little boxing and more close infighting. The clean break rule should result in faster milking and prove more satisfactory to the fans.

Efforts are also being put forth to have the bout scheduled so that there will be no delays of any nature. The main bout will start sharp at 8 o'clock, according to present plans, and the fans should have no fear of being kept late in Juárez.
